WHAT TO DO:

- You need the exact measurements to purchase the correct curtain and rod length.
- Hang your curtains about 6 inches above the window. This gives an illusion of taller ceilings.
- You will want the curtains to lightly graze the floor when they are hung.
- Your curtain rod should extend past the window by about 10-12 inches on either side.

WHAT NOT TO DO:

Avoid: Do not hang the curtain rod directly above the window. This will make your window look smaller.

Choose: Picking a curtain that is too short will make the room look smaller. Always go for the floor length curtain.

Avoid: Do not choose a curtain rod that is too narrow. Make sure it always extends past the window.
